Matthew J. Moore BIO (LONG VERSION):

Matthew J. Moore

Visionary Servant-Leader | Champion of Sound Money & Personal Liberty

Matthew J. Moore is a passionate servant-leader who believes the greatest achievements begin by seeing the world not as it is, but as it could be. A man of deep faith, successful entrepreneur, Amazon best-selling author, and dedicated community builder, Matthew uses his gifts in leadership and communication to inspire hope and drive Christ-like cultural change.

He is the host of The Money Block with Matthew J. Moore, the nation's leading weekly television program focused on Bitcoin, cryptocurrency, sound money, and personal liberty. The show is syndicated on the BizTV Network, reaching audiences in over 100+ U.S. cities/markets. Through his national platform, speaking engagements, and writing, Matthew has become one of America's most visible advocates for financial sovereignty and individual freedom.

Leadership & Impact

From 2011 to 2021, Matthew served as President of the Young Businessmen of Tulsa (YBT), significantly expanding the organization's influence through education, networking, and a weekly television program. In 2022, he led the successful merger of YBT with Tulsa Christian Businessmen (TCB), where he continues to serve as President. Together, the organizations have raised more than $250,000 for community projects and hosted hundreds of impactful events.

A recognized leader in Oklahoma's cryptocurrency movement, Matthew helped draft some of the earliest pro-crypto legislation, serves as an advisor to the Oklahoma Bitcoin Association, and played a pivotal role in passing landmark bills that made Oklahoma the first state to explicitly protect the rights to transact, self-custody, and mine Bitcoin.

His accomplishments have earned him numerous honors, including the NEXTGEN 30 Under 30 Award from the Governor of Oklahoma (2016), Oklahoma Magazine's 40 Under 40, formal recognitions from both the Oklahoma House and Senate, and a Certificate of Congressional Recognition from former Congressman and NASA Administrator Jim Bridenstine. In 2013, his company Heartland Direct International received the Gold and Platinum Maxi Awards from the Direct Marketing Association of Washington.

Author & Communicator

Matthew is the Amazon best-selling author of Foundations For Liberty, which reached #1 in categories including Money & Monetary Policy and Social Theory. His insights and commentary have been featured in The Journal Record, Oklahoma Magazine, Tulsa World, Cointelegraph, and other major financial and business outlets. He speaks to tens of thousands of people annually at conferences and seminars.

A lifelong learner and serial social entrepreneur, Matthew's interests span faith, liberty, economics, business, and communication. He continues to consult on Bitcoin and sound money while investing his time and energy into building stronger communities and a freer society.
